Friend by a Virginia Lady. Editors Dispatch: I send you-though thinking it may afford a moment's interest providing themselves with flags, &c. : to some of your readers, reminding them, at least by the familiar names, of scenes they, too, have enjoyed. PARIS.

My Dear Friend,-I was more than glad to receive the letter forwarded to me at Venice, about two weeks ago, and to know that you were all well. If you could only realize your wish, some day, and come over here to see for yourself, what others could never see, with your appreciative mind and heart! If I have wished for since then I have seen so much that is interesting and beautiful I cannot feel conthere for two or three bours only-long enough to take lunch and drive around the city, including an hour spent in wandering about the unsurpassed castle ruins. After sketching the different points of interest there, we drove through the city and across the river to see it from the other side. The river and the mountains, the ruins, and the city, made, in my estimaiton, a perfectly beautiful scene. Heidelberg is one of the few cities here in which I should like to live, and that short glimpse of it I hope never to forget. We slept at Baden that night-a place of varied interest-but as it rained all the time for Conclave, &c. the three days we were there we failed to to Schaffhausen and saw Lake Constanz en passant. Our hotel in Schaffhausen overlooked the falls of the Rhine, and the roar water's edge, the snow-capped Alps beyond, and the pretty, quaint town, with its old towers and bridges. Ol it is "a joy forever" to have seen it. "Thorwalsden's Lion" is grand; no picture I have seen does it justice; it is a poem cut in the living rock. A week in Lucerne; then, in a diligence, over the Burning Pass to Interlaken; we saw there the lakes of Brienz

Giessbach and Staubbach, the glacier and ice-cave of the Grindelwald; and after four days in sight of the Yungfrau we went on through Berne (where we saw the bears) to Geneva, just on the banks of that liquid sapphire, Lake Lehmhau. We went to the picturesque castle of Chillon, and saw, of course, Bonnivard's cell and Lord Byron's name on the pillar. From Geneva, after eight days, to Chamounix, where we rested three days at the foot of Mt. Blanc-white indeed, and monarch of the mountains; then, over the Tete Noire, we came down into the Valley of the Rhone, and again reached Lake Geneva, having made the complete tour of the lake, and seen almost everything of note in its vicinity. We were not averse to returning to lovely Lucerne, which was on our most direct route into the Engadine, the most romantic part of the Swiss Tyrol. The scenery there is

> ARRIVAL OF THE NEW STEAMSHIP MAN-HATTAN.-The new steamship Manhattan, of the Old Dominion Line, which will ply between New York and Richmond, made her first trip to this port Saturday. She is fine steamer, and has just been built. Captain Kelly, who lately commanded the Richmond, has charge of her, and is an excellent officer. She brought a number of passengers, who were comfortably quartered in her handsome staterooms. She also had on board a large cargo. Her crew num-make-believe, as we saw elsewhere. The Cathedral and St. Carlo Borromeo's tomb are magnificent; and nothing that you have seen, unless in the mere position of the figures, is at all like "da Vinci's Last Supper." It is very much marred, and I We saw Maggiore and Isola Bella, and then, in a carriage over the St. Gothard, came back to Lucerne a third time-just one last night there-and back to Paris. We reached here last Tuesday morningjust nine weeks from the time of starting. I hope to go to London next Thursday, one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch. and, after two months in England, to return

HORRIBLE DEATH OF MR. JAMES S. NASH. James S. Nash, a well-known citizen of Puckaboe township, Henrico county, met borrible death Friday night. On that day he was in Richmond making purchases. He reached home about 8 P. M., and getting a light went into the feed-house to get some fodder for his horse. By some means, now unknown, the fodder was set on fire between him and the door. The house was of logs; all his efforts to escape were in vain. His cries attracted to the spot his wife and others of the household, and, as reported to us, they saw him burning up, without being able to afford the slightest relief. His head and limbs were burned from the body. The Mr. Nash was about fifty-three or fifty-

The night preceding was clear, and, despite a brisk northerly wind, there was a heavy frost, which covered the ground and killed all tender vegetation. OUR AMATEURS IN PINAFORE THIS WEEE, time to run locomotives on Broad street. During the week just passed Richmond has am not in favor of the granting of that per had a new experience in the extraordinary opera of Pinafore. We had heard this musical treat well sung by a troupe of children, and thoroughly murdered by a troupe of grown people; we had also seen it most beautifully put upon the stage and had beard it exquisitely sung by Ford's company. Indeed, so often has it been heard in Richmond that frequenters of the opera almost knew it by heart. Young ladies entertained their admirers by practicing it until people who live in piano neighborhoods and have no music in their souls wished, with Dr. Jolinson, that it had not only been difficult, but impossible. The chaste character of the plot and dialogue rendered it possible for the strictest churchmembers to listen without being shocked; while no one could fail to be amused at the four years of age, and leaves a wife and one ridiculous situations and pleased with the child. He was a very worthy man, and was sprightly music. So the fact stared our noted as one of the best Conservatives in amateurs in the face that they were to be to southeast winds, partly cloudy weather, the county, being always ready to work criticised by hypercritical audiences light rains in the southern portions, a slight when his services were needed. Their own friends were unfortunately admitted to the rehearsals, and they were not even saved from PARATIONS FOR DECORATING THE CITY.—The Conflicting advice of the "dear Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of five hundred" puzzled many a good Virginia will assemble in this city on the embryo actor, and one of the unfortunates, after having been advised to put his hands behind his back, to fold his arms, to saw the air with them, and so on, applied to the writer of this article for advice, and was told that we did not know what he ought to do, but would take great pleasure in showing him up if he did anything wrong! Who would not rather face a cannon than so well-posted an audience? Yet, buoved up by the courage and undoubted ability of Mr. Siegel, who had successfully brought out operas of much greater diffi-culty, they ventured. But Cinderella, Frieschutz, and Stradella were works known intimately only by those who had been initiated into the mysteries of music, while the very children in the street sang Pinafore from one end to the other. Notwithstanding all these difficulties, our amateurs made a grand success of their perilous undertaking, and we had the satisfaction of seeing an opera which ministers of the gospel could attend without giving scandal to their congregations. A troupe of ladies and gentlemen who can sing well and act well, and whose language and manners are those of well-bred people, is a pleasant sight to behold. As all have been noticed so frequently, it is only necessary to add that each one of the principal characters is remarkable for some special trait. Josephine (Miss Swain) is a Hull street, Saturday morning about 7 magnificent singer; Little Buttercup (Miss Beale) is an exquisite actress; Hebe (Mrs. Gillis) looks pretty; the ancient aunt (Miss ral persons were near by at the time, and Pelouze) is quaint and amusing; Ralph Rackstraw (Mr. Cunningbam) sings beau- loss was done. tifully, and is very graceful; Captain Corcoran (Mr. Pizzini). sings and acts well; Mr. Starke as the Admiral has statuary of "Pocahontas Saving the Life a fine conception of the character; Dick of Smith" will be unveiled at the court-Deadeye (Mr. Perrot) does everything remarkably well; the Boatswain (Mr. Pleasants) has a grand voice, and the Marine Mr. Waggoner) is exceedingly comic. The chorus is the very best which Richmond has ever heard in Pinafore. Those who have never seen this opera (and the city count upon a great treat in attending our boards at Mozart Hall again.

MR. the performances of Mr. Ford's company. We shall see whether this be true. Seats may be secured at the Theatre boxoffice or at Johnston's store, on Main street near Tenth.

BRIEFS-PERSONAL .- The Fair commences to-morrow. The prospects for a fine exhibition and large crowd are good. Owing to depredations heretofore committed at the Fair-Grounds on Sundays preceeding the Fair-week, the chief marshal ordered the police to admit no one on yesterday except exhibitors upon their certificates, and citizens with written permits This was a good move, as we learn there was much complaint last year occasioned by the large number of persons visiting the grounds on Sunday. The Florences are coming to Richmond soon. Constant complaint is made of the Thea tre dress-circle doors being left open at times during the performances. There was but a small amount of registerng done Saturday.

Overcoats came into fashion Saturday. Pawnee Tribe, No. 53, I. O. R. M., will give their first grand ball at Levy's Hall on Wednesday evening next. The grand march will take place at 9 o'clock. Governor Mathews, of West Virginia, and a party of ten or fifteen ladies and gen-

It was understood Saturday that the order KERRYVILLE SUITS, $5. requiring the police to get new uniforms was to be modified, or altogether rescinded. THE MIDGETS .- Much interest is awaken ed daily at the levees of these tiny creatures. Their perfectness in form, brightness, and sprightliness, added to their marvellous diminutiveness, fills everybody who sees them with wonder. This week will end their exhibition in our city, and no one should fail to see them.

WYMAN.-This famous old friend of the youth of the country will give an entertainment each night this week at the Virginia Opera-House. He has laid in a large supply of presents to be distributed to his
